

World War II: A Never-Ending History

Guest Editor: Sławomir Buryła

FOREWORD
9	AGNIESZKA DAUKSZA	The War of the Helpless: A Never-Ending History
ESSAYS
21	SŁAWOMIR BURYŁA	The Literature of War and Occupation: Conceptualising a Dictionary
38	AGNIESZKA DAUKSZA	Insignificant People Experience the Violence of World War II: On the Need to Study Testimonies of Powerlessness
59	TOMASZ TOMASIK	The September Campaign as an Experience of Military Masculinity
76	JOANNA OSTROWSKA	“Sissies”, “Buggers”, “Fruits”: Sexual Violence Against Men in Concentration Camps
95	ROMA SENDYKA	Looking at What Was Happening Here : “Folk Art” and the Dynamics of Polish Memory of the Holocaust
110	JAKUB MUCHOWSKI	A Society of Bystanders Follows the Eichmann Case: The Reception of the Trial in Poland in the 1960s
DISCUSSIONS AND ANALYSES
130	ALINA MOLISAK	The Poles and the Holocaust: A New History School
136	PIOTR WEISER	“The Pogrom Lasts a Day, a Few Days, a Month, Now It Lasts Forever...”
145	ANDRZEJ JUCHNIEWICZ	Talent Claims and Escalations
PRESENTATIONS
155	SARA AHMED	Phenomenology of Whiteness Transl. Teresa Fazan
INVESTIGATIONS
181	KAMILA BUDROWSKA	Censorship in Polish Literature on World War II, 1944-1990: State of Research and Research Perspectives

198	ARKADIUSZ MORAWIEC	Konzentrationslager Buchenwald, Post Weimar (in Polish Literature)
213	BARBARA CZARNECKA	Concentration as a Method of Extermination (Ravensbrück)
233	ZOFIA MIODUSZEWSKA-WAJSZCZAK	The Fifth Anniversary of the Warsaw Ghetto Uprising in the Light of Archival Documents at the Central Committee of Polish Jews
<hr/>
INTERPRETATIONS
251	PAWEŁ TOMCZOK	The Symbolic Mobilisation of the Dead: World War II in Jarosław Marek Rymkiewicz and Przemysław Dakowicz's Necropolitics
265	ALEKSANDRA SZCZEPAN	Krystyna Żywulska, a Parade Goy: On the Two Languages of Polish Culture After the Shoah
283	KAROLINA KOPROWSKA	The Key to a House that Does not Exist: Leopold Buczkowski's Czarny Potok [Black Torrent] as a Study of Topocide
303	ANGELIKA KOWALIK	Literature and Memory Work: Włodzimierz Odojewski's Oksana
<hr/>
POSITIONS
318	MARTA TOMCZOK	Caught in the Grip of Fear, in the Snares of Love: Emotions in the Study of World War II and Pop Culture
336	MARIA KOBIELSKA	Critical Memory Studies and Polish Duties: Towards a Memory that is Sufficiently Good (Inspired by Monika Sznajderman's Falszerze pieprzu [Pepper Counterfeiters])
355	TOMASZ ŁYSAK	The Diary of Anne Frankenstein : Broadening of the Field of Studies on Popular Culture and the Holocaust
367	KAROLINA WRÓBEL-BARDZIK	The Ruderal Landscape of (Post)War Warsawy
<hr/>
ARCHIVE
381	ALINA MOLISAK	Madagaskar : Projects and Passages from Bogdan Wojdowski's Non-Existent Drama