

Contents

Introduction: Literature: text and social communication (Marek Pąkciński, The Institute of Literary Research of the Polish Academy of Sciences, Warsaw)	3
Janusz Maciejewski (The Institute of Literary Research of the Polish Academy of Sciences, Warsaw) Occasional and applied literature. (In place of an introduction)	15
Aleksander W. Lipatow (Institute of Slavic Studies of the Russian Academy of Sciences) Russia and Poland – a ‘domestic row’ of Slavs, or a conflict of mentalities?	25
Beata Cieszyńska (Kazimierz Wielki University in Bydgoszcz) The image of Poland and Poles in the Dmitriads, from the British perspective	39
Barbara Wolska (University of Lodz) Without guilt or shame. Sexuality in eroticism-themed Polish obscene poetry of the Enlightenment period	59
Dorota Samborska-Kukuć (University of Lodz) Resident bards. The court poet in light of memories from the Polish Eastern Borderlands in the first half of the 19th century	95
Agata Grabowska-Kuniczuk (The Institute of Literary Research of the Polish Academy of Sciences, Warsaw) A ‘judgement of the eye’? The way(s) the world is perceived in Bolesław Prus’s prose works	III
Jolanta Sztachelska (University of Białystok) From a trip East. On a different Europe and the genre-fluid nature of the letter in Henryk Sienkiewicz’s travel correspondence	127

Marek Pacukiewicz (University of Silesia in Katowice)
'A different fabric'. The overt and the hidden in Joseph Conrad's prefaces to his prose works	155
Wiesław Ratajczak (Adam Mickiewicz University, Poznań)
Conrad and Arendt. Revealing the roots of evil	175
Agnieszka Bąbel (The Institute of Literary Research of the Polish Academy of Sciences, Warsaw)
The art of breaking up. Infelicitous engagements in Polish novels and memoirs from the turn of the 20th century.	189
Marek Pąckiński (The Institute of Literary Research of the Polish Academy of Sciences, Warsaw)
Body, gender, and a communist's shame (side notes on Stanisław Lem's utopian science fiction novels from the 1950's)	209
Franciszek Apanowicz (University of Gdańsk)
The issue of the genre of Kolyma stories by Varlam Shalamov and its editions in Polish	237
Aleksandra Matykiewicz-Włodarska (Jagiellonian University, Cracow)
The Luther effect. The consequences of the Reformation in the area of printed media and communication	255